What law enforcement officers are saying about VALOR:

“The training has helped me with being more vigilant in looking for pre-incident indicators of violent attacks and armed persons. Cops become complacent as time goes on. This type of training helps rid the complacency and re-opens the eyes of a patrol cop.” – San Diego, CA

“I am so pleased that my department allowed me to attend this training. As a 15-year trooper, I found all the subjects very interesting. I only wish that our entire department could attend this training. The instructors were all top-notch, and I have shared so much of the information that I learned with my coworkers over these last several months. Thank you again.” – Seattle, WA

“The Pre-Incident Indicators of Violent Attacks and the Characteristics of Armed Gunmen blocks paid off on a call when a suspect was armed. I was able to tell that he (the suspect) had a gun before he had a chance to grab it and use it on my partner.” – Arlington, TX

“Great training, reopens your eyes to things you see every day. I’ve only been on since last year and can’t count the number of post incidents that have occurred and were similar to training. Would recommend to any and all officers.” – Grand Island, NE

As part of the United States Attorney General’s Officer Safety Initiative, VALOR was created to respond to the startling increase in felonious assaults that have taken the lives of many law enforcement officers. This poster is part of an innovative partnership between VALOR and the NLEOMF to promote law enforcement officer safety.
